

Speak up safely

Anonymous reporting for workplace complaints

Encourage early reporting of issues before they escalate

Demonstrate your commitment to psychological safety

Gain insights into workplace culture and risks

Support compliance with employment relations and H&S regulation.

A Speak Up Safely email address allows your staff to let you know about workplace issues including bullying, harassment, misconduct, fraud, or any other issue they may not feel confident to bring up in-person.

How it works

- Your organisation is provided with a dedicated, secure email address for staff to report concerns anonymously. Eg: [yourorganisation]@speakupsafely.help
- Messages are received and triaged by Three60 Consult's team.
- We assess the nature of the concern and contact your HR team or management to make them aware of the issue.
- If required, our team can provide advice on next steps as an additional service*, or act as an intermediary to gather further information or clarify the desired outcome, while protecting the identity of the complainant.

What's included

- setup of a dedicated email address for your organisation
- a communications kit (poster, banner, tile and key messages to help promote the service internally).
- ongoing monitoring.
